

Open Letter for Asian-American History Education in NYC Public Schools

April 26, 2021

Dear Mayor De Blasio and Chancellor Meisha Porter,

The recent surge in anti-Asian hate crimes and violence has highlighted the woefully inadequate education pertaining to Asian American history that our children receive. As parents of Asian-American students in NYC public schools, we urge you to take immediate actions to establish and promote a curriculum that is inclusive of Asian-American history and culture. Education is among the best antidotes to racism and must start in the earliest grades. The future of our city and our nation depends on what our children learn in school today.

Asian-American children must know their history in this country so they can be proud of their heritage and stand up to discrimination and hate. Their classmates who are not of Asian descent must also learn about Asian-American history to better understand and respect the racial and ethnic background and identity of their Asian-American peers. Very few NYC students are taught about the numerous ground-breaking contributions Asian-Americans have made to this country and our city, or about the hardships, exclusions, violence, and killings that Asian-Americans have endured over the centuries in this country and our city. The stories of how Asian-Americans have stood up against racism and discrimination and fought to realize their dreams must be told. Asian-American history is American history.

It is critical for all NYC students to see Asian-American role models, historical figures, writers, artists, scientists, and contemporary leaders included in the school context, including but not limited to curriculum, classroom walls, library books, lesson slides, and performances. To address the discrimination and prejudice that Asian-American students have been subjected to for far too long, we ask you as well as the principals and teachers of NYC public schools to support Asian-American children now. We ask you to immediately implement the following:

One, teach Asian-American history to our children and their classmates in NYC public schools.

Two, celebrate Asian-American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month with a series of activities every year.

Three, teach Asian-American children how to confront racism and teach their classmates how to support Asian-American classmates.

We believe that by learning about the history of each member of our community--how we arrived at this land and how we helped to build this nation and city together--we will be more united, empathetic, and respectful to each other; we will be better able to fight racism, discrimination, and inequality. We look forward to collaborating with you to achieve racial representation and equality in our schools for all children.

Sincerely,

Xia Li, Ting Yu, and Joseph Chou parents of Asian-American students at MS158 Marie Curie, Queens; Yiatin Chu and Lulu Song, parents of Asian-American students at PS184M Shuang Wen School, Manhattan

We, the undersigned, are in solidarity with the authors of this letter and join in their demands.
